00:40:42	Paul Jarzemowski	The see-judge-act pattern (that Anna mentioned) seems to go like this in Fratelli Tutti : chapter 1 (see and observe); chapters 2-3 (judge or discern); and chapters 4-8 (act or respond)

00:53:59	Tracey Lamont _LIM	"...we are still 'illiterate' when it comes to accompanying, caring for and supporting the most frail and vulnerable members of our developed societies. We have become accustomed to looking the other way, passing by, ignoring situations until they affect us directly."
00:55:00		"The decision to include or exclude those lying wounded along the roadside can serve as a criterion for judging every economic, political, social and religious project. Each day we have to decide whether to be Good Samaritans or indifferent bystanders. " FT #69
00:58:58	Michal Horace	Please type in your questions using the Q&A tab at the bottom of your screen.
00:59:42		"As a Church, may we never fail to weep before these tragedies of our young. May we never become inured to them, for anyone incapable of tears cannot be a mother. We want to weep so that society itself can be more of a mother, so that in place of killing it can learn to give birth, to become a promise of life. We weep when we think of all those young people who have already lost their lives due to poverty and violence, and we ask society to learn to be a caring mother. None of this pain goes away; it stays with us, because the harsh reality can no longer be concealed. The worst thing we can do is adopt that worldly spirit whose solution is simply to anaesthetize young people with other messages, with other distractions, with trivial pursuits." Christus Vivit #75

01:39:32	Tracey Lamont _LIM	"For these reasons, the Church, while respecting the autonomy of political life, does not restrict her mission to the private sphere. On the contrary, "she cannot and must not remain on the sidelines" in the building of a better world, or fail to "reawaken the spiritual energy" that can contribute to the betterment of society."
