X. Comments:
1. In which areas could the supervisee(s) have been more adequately prepared?
	Assessment processes and groups; The student could be more prepared to plan supports for students with different mental health diagnoses. The student could be more prepared to have conversations with client's caretakers about the work they are doing with the child.; Dealing with difficult personalities in group.; In the distant past the supervise's had never had experienced practicing in an agency setting, which was a drawback. The current student had demonstrated excellence in all areas of practice.; Loyola students typically seem developmentally prepared for the level of internship they are entering, practicum or internships. I enjoy working with them.
2. What are the areas where the supervisee(s) were exceptionally prepared?

	Professionalism, ethics, adhering to agency policies; The student is very prepared to be a professional in a professional setting. The student is very prepared and conscientious about ethical standards.; Understanding ethics.; The current supervisee was exceptionally prepared in all areas.; I have worked with 8 Loyola counseling interns over my time here and the majority have been well prepared to work with and engage with students. I've enjoyed training them as well as learning from them.
